Brief presentation:

I am a multidisciplinary medical researcher who integrates Eastern and Western medicine. I obtained my Bachelor's degree in Acupuncture and my Master's degree in Colorectal Surgery, focusing on benign anorectal diseases. I then worked for five years as a surgical resident in a hospital in China. Currently, I am pursuing my PhD at the Department of Surgical, Medical, Molecular Pathology and Critical Area, where my research focuses on the pathology of colorectal cancer. I am deeply interested in exploring diverse medical systems and scientific perspectives.
